End Of The Line

Good Evening!

Clouds flying low and drizzling.

Typical April Monday, we guess, with typical April magic which touches up the country with greenery as if by the waving of a wand.

Revolt in Bolivia crushed.

It doesn't make much difference as to their outcome as long as the South Americans continue revolting. This is the way we know things are normal.

Christian Herter the new Secretary of State and Mr. Eisenhower couldn't have made a better choice. The man is tremendously well qualified for the job.

Quite a job ahead for him, by the way, what with Geneva meetings in May and a probable summit seminar in summer. But there doesn't seem to be much question about Mr. Herter knowing precisely how to deal with the double-dealers out of the Kremlin.

That Montana prison revolt crushed and crushed well and now only unpleasant memories of an outbreak that probably shouldn't have happened in the first place.

Some day maybe this country will waken up to the need of some real prison reform. Our penal system a couple of centuries behind the times and another example of how pitifully out-of-step we are with the cadence of the era.

Daylight Time begins next Sunday. Already? Already.

Hard on the chickens, cows and sheep. Easy on the fellows who enjoy that extra hour of twilight relief from the mosquitoes.

This is the month for it—when a young man's fancy nightly turns to gasoline.

A lot of the pony tails look like the girls forgot to get permission from the pony.

Bulletin! At an eastern college they just succeeded in stuffing 13 telephone booths into a student.

Take it easy with the driving.

Four Hurt As Car Rams Traffic Light

Four motorists were injured late Saturday night in a car that struck a traffic light at the intersection of Route 13 and Beaver St., Bristol.

According to police, Francis Martina, 19, of 1301 Wellington St., Philadelphia, misjudged his distance while turning from Beaver St. to Route 13 and hit with the traffic signal.

Martino and three passengers were taken to the Lower Bucks County Hospital in an ambulance by the Bristol Emergency Squad. The passengers, Edward Gallagher, Joseph Spera, and Darla Eddings, all of Philadelphia, were treated for minor cuts and bruises at the hospital.

Sgt. Gaspar Favorso and Patrolman James Flanagan, Bristol Borough Police, reported that Martino will be charged with reckless driving.

Man Charged With Larceny

An Andalusia man was in Bucks County Prison today charged with larceny of an automobile after allegedly stealing the car Friday night in Bensalem Township and being picked up several hours later for reckless driving in New Jersey.

Absecon, N. J. police arrested Samuel Tate, 26, of 466 Robinson Ave., Andalusia for reckless driving. When he failed to produce an ownership to the car he was driving, police detained him and called Bensalem Township police.

In the meantime, Bensalem police had the report of the stolen car. The vehicle is owned by Joseph Whinnery, State Road and King's Lane, Andalusia.

Chief William Riempp and Patrolman Frank Wolaniuk brought Tate back to Bensalem Township yesterday afternoon.

Tot Gets The Point—But Not In Diapers

Mark Shindler is a two-year-old Australian-born lad who came to America two months ago with his American father and Australian mother.

Already, he is very American in his actions.

He swallows safety pins.

The episode began Saturday afternoon in his aunt and uncle's house, the home of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Shindler at 16 Ambling Lane, Levittown.

Mark's mother and dad are staying with relatives until their house in Levittown, N.J. is ready for them.

Mark's mother, Mrs. Gloria Shindler, was putting Mark in his dapper diapers for Saturday afternoon. While his mother was going through the ritual, Mark decided to investigate these tricky pins.

"Give me that," Mrs. Shindler said.

"Gulp," Mark said.

Down went the safety pin. Out went Mrs. Shindler to call the Levittown-Fairless Hills Rescue Squad.

The squad took Mark immediately to the hospital. At first it was feared that Mark had swallowed an open pin.

The hospital took X-rays and the pictures spotted the pin in Mark's stomach. "It'll be alright," the doctors said.

Then the Shindlers waited. And they waited. Saturday afternoon. (Continued on Page 3, Col. 3)

Bus Strike Sunday Faces Neibauer Co.

A threatened strike of 35 union employees may terminate service by the Neibauer Bus Co., Bristol, next Sunday afternoon.

James J. A. Gallagher, president of Local 282, Transport Workers of America, announced today that his union members have unanimously voted to go on strike unless their "contracts are transferred to the new owners of the Neibauer bus line."

However, the Layton Bus Service, Trenton, N. J., and Wills Equipment Co., Mount Holly, N. J., announced today that they are not buying the Neibauer firm, only its franchise for certain rights of that firm.

Franchise Transfer

A spokesman for the Layton firm said the Layton and Wills companies are negotiating for the transfer of the Neibauer firm's franchise for the Trenton to Philadelphia and Trenton to Burlington passenger lines and certain charter rights.

The Layton firm spokesman said that the Neibauer firm will remain in existence.

"We are not buying the Neibauer stock, equipment, or building," he said.

The spokesman said he expects that Neibauer will continue to provide charter bus service for the parochial schools and other private organizations in the Lower Bucks area.

Gallagher has said that if the Local 282 employees go on strike, every effort will be made to furnish transportation of some 4,000 children to the parochial schools.

"If we have to we will provide busses from an outside firm manned by our own drivers," Gallagher said.

Gallagher also State Assemblyman for the Second District, reported that the union was arranging for an outside bus firm to come in here if necessary. "The

Lawn Racing Suspect Held

A 19-year-old Levittown youth was arrested yesterday on charges that he was racing his car over the lawns and through the back yards of several Levittown homes.

The youth, Frank Hammer, of 45 Pawn Lane, Farmbrook, is being held under $1,500 to wait hearing on charges of leaving the scene of an accident. JP Earl B. Dougherty, who set the bail, has not scheduled a hearing yet.

Bristol Township said the youth ran his car over the lawns of Mick P. Walker, of 22 Black Walnut Road, Blue Ridge, and of Philip Hoch, at 28 Gun Road, Goldenridge, late Saturday night.

They report he also drove his car between the homes of Chuck Shill, 29 Grapevine Road and Mrs. Ernest Briner, 28 Greenbriar Road, Goldenridge.

The youth turned himself into police yesterday afternoon after he returned from the stock car races at the Langhorne Speedway.

Fidel And Dick Talk

Cuban Prime Minister Castro (left) and Vice President Richard Nixon leave the Vice President's Capitol office after a long meeting yesterday. Castro said after the meeting he was convinced of the great goodwill of the U.S. toward Cuba.

Touring Castro To Visit Princeton

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Cuban Prime Minister Fidel Castro appeared satisfied today that his five-day Washington visit had fostered better understanding of his new government.

His appeal to American public opinion continued with an address this afternoon at the National Press Club. He was to leave later by plane for Princeton, N.J., on the second leg of his U.S. visit.

Castro indicated he felt his American trip was off to a good start when he told a nationwide television audience last night that his visit had brought "spiritual profits."

"I believe that here in the United States the people . . . and the government are going to understand us better," he said in halting English. "It is good not only for Cuba, it is good too for the United States."

Later the bearded, 32-year-old Castro—garbed as usual in his open-necked army fatigues—spent two hours and 22 minutes chatting privately with Vice President Richard M. Nixon at Nixon's Capitol Hill office.

Nixon declined to make any detailed statement on the conversation, but said this country is "vitally interested in helping the Cuban people in their economic progress in an atmosphere of freedom."

Castro said the meeting left him "satisfied."

Under sharp questioning from a panel of newsmen on the TV program (NBC-Meet the Press), Castro attempted to dispel apprehensions raised by some American observers that his new regime might be pro-Communist or anti-American.

Regarding reports his government is infiltrated by Communists, he said: "Their influence is nothing."

Retail Credit Talks Slated

Representatives of the Retail Credit Managers Association of Lower Bucks County will visit Lower Bucks high schools this week.

The visits are in keeping with the observance of National Retail Credit Week. The visits are designed to explain the proper use of credit to the high school students.

Today, the credit managers are visiting Bristol High School and the Bucks County Technical School.

The schedule for the remainder of the week is: Bensalem High and Morrisville High, tomorrow; Morrisville High, Wednesday; Delhaas High and Neshaminy High, Friday.

Restaurant Levy Rapped As 'Unfair'

HARRISBURG (UPI) — The House was expected to give swift approval today to Senate amendments to the bill adding a penny-a-pack tax on cigarettes to pay the 150 million dollar Korean War veterans bonus.

House Majority Leader Stephen McCann (D-theGreene) said the chamber would concur promptly in the revision when the bill returns to his chamber. The Senate amendment makes the tax effective June 1, instead of May 1 as proposed originally.

Meanwhile, a drive got underway to amend the restaurant meals feature of the 3½ per cent sales tax signed into law last week by Gov. David L. Lawrence.

The Pennsylvania Restaurant Assn. charged that lowering of the exemption on such meals from 50 to 10 cents was "unfair, unreasonable and discriminatory—a tax against the poor" and announced it would seek an amendment in the Senate this week to amend the law and raise the exemption.

Fred G. Sampson, the group's executive vice-president, pointed out a delegation turned over sacks of mail protesting the change to Lawrence before he signed the sales tax bill, and added: "We were shocked at how lightly administration officials dismissed the wishes of the public."

Sen. John H. Van Sant (R-Lehigh) also was reported ready to introduce a bill to change the restaurant meal provision.

Milk Control Changes Also up for possible action in the Legislature this week are the "milk bills" which are in position for final passage by the Senate. The two measures would take away from county health departments the right to regulate sale of milk and agricultural products and give it to the state Health Department.

Lawrence said he would veto such bills if they reach his desk. If passed by the Senate, they still would have to pass the Democratic-controlled House.

McCann said he planned to sound out Democratic sentiment on the first of the proposals deleted from the sales tax bill before the 3½ per cent levy was enacted last week.

The separate bill to impose the tax on over-the-bar sales of liquor and beer may go to a showdown vote before this week's session is over. McCann admitted many of his 107 Democratic members are opposed to the bill, but indicated there was some support for it on the Republican side of the aisle.

The other part of the original sales tax bill—a measure to extend the 3½ per cent levy to automobile and appliance trade-ins—has not been reported from the Ways and Means Committee.

12 Persons Are Hurt On Twp. Roads

Twelve persons were injured in four highway accidents in Bristol Township over the weekend.

In one accident, a woman suffered severe lacerations of the forehead when she was thrown against the windshield of her husband's car.

She is Mrs. Eleanor Bailey, 33, of 736 Old Orchard Lane, Bristol. Sixteen sutures were required to close the cuts. Her husband, Roy, 36, and two children, Sharon, 11, and Catherine, 8, were also injured. They were treated at Lower Bucks County Hospital and discharged.

The Bucks County Rescue Squad took Mrs. Bailey to the hospital.

Bristol Township Patrolman Edward Ward reported Bailey's car crashed into the rear of a vehicle operated by Edwin Thompson, 56, of Burlington, on the Route 413 approach to the Burlington-Bristol Bridge. Thompson and a passenger in his car, Fred Allen, 38, of 536 Locust St., Bristol, were also treated at the hospital for cuts and bruises. They were released after treatment.

Four other persons were injured in a three-car crash on Route 13 at Neshaminy Road, at 8:55 p.m. Saturday.

Sgt. Stewart and Patrolman Leonard Stoughton identified the drivers of the three cars as: George Farrell, 50, of 4206 N. Eighth St., Philadelphia; James Szymanski, 47, of 800 Wood St., Bristol; and Arthur Kaplan, 36, of 7201 Revere St., Philadelphia. All three were driving south on Route 13 and piled up when Farrell, who was first in line, stopped.

The injured were Kaplan, and his wife, Selma, 27, cuts and bruises; Mary Rooney, 54, of 227 Washington St., Bristol, confusion of right elbow; and Mary Rooney, 35, of 589 Cheltenham Ave., Philadelphia, abrasion of leg. The two

German Refugee At Neshaminy Captures Bucks Science Award

A 17-year-old youth who came to this country from West Germany less than three years ago has been selected to represent Bucks County at the National Youth Conference on the Atom, to be held April 30 and May 1 at the Claridge Hotel in Atlantic City, N.J.

The boy is Reinhard George Olesch, of 603 Main St., Hulmeville, a senior at Neshaminy High School, who was born in Breslau, Silesia, and who attended school from the fourth to the ninth grades in Lichtenfels, West Germany. He entered Neshaminy High School in November, 1956.

He was chosen to attend the youth conference by attaining the highest score among junior and senior high school students in Bucks County in an examination in biology, chemistry, and physics conducted by the Philadelphia Science Council.

600 To Attend

Reinhard will be among 600 outstanding students from every section of the country at the conference. The two-day gathering is sponsored by more than 65 electric utility companies in the nation to help advance interest in the study of science in the United States.

The local boy will go to Atlantic City as the guest of the Philadelphia Electric Company. He will be accompanied by his chemistry teacher at the high school, Eugene Schneck, who also will be a guest of Philadelphia Electric at the shore city.

The conference will feature nationally known educators and experts in the field of nuclear energy who will discuss the application of atomic energy for peaceful purposes. A group of exhibits dealing with the atom also will be set up for the conference.

Among the speakers are John F. Floberg, a member of the United States Atomic Energy Commission, and Dr. James Creech, president of Drexel Institute of Technology.

Croydon Library Signs 30 Members

The Croydon Branch of the Regional Public Library signed up 30 members opening day Saturday. More than 70 persons visited the new institution in the old Croydon School, State Road, Croydon, between 10 a.m. and 5 p.m.

Children made up the largest portion of the crowd. However they were not permitted to take out membership cards unless their parents were with them, according to a rule of the Regional library.

The library will be open every Monday, Wednesday and Friday evening from 7 to 9 p.m. starting tonight.

The library committee has appealed for volunteers to help man the library and increase the number of hours open. As soon as more books and help are available the library will open during the day to accommodate school children.

The library, converted from a classroom in the old school, drew many favorable comments. Natural finished shelves lined the walls just recently painted a pale blue.

The work was done by volunteers.

Biggs Quits Middletown Board Race

James F. A. Biggs announced today that he was withdrawing as a candidate for a post on the Middletown Township School Board in the Democratic primary election.

Biggs' withdrawal leaves Charles J. Tetlow at the only candidate opposing a ticket made up of Irving Susskind, Cindy Hagood and Eileen Radtke for the school board.

Tetlow was endorsed by the Middletown Democratic Association but his nomination was opposed by the township democratic executive committee.

Biggs, who lives at 27 Red Rose Way, Levittown, said he had to withdraw as a candidate because of an unexpected change in his business affairs.

In his withdrawal statement, Biggs thanked his supporters and assured them that Susskind, Hagood and Radtke "will revitalize the school board as I had hoped to do."

Driver Held In Jail

A Doylestown man was committed to Bucks County Prison yesterday morning in lieu of $500 bail to await a hearing on charges of driving a car while under suspension.

Bristol Township police arrested Howard A. DeHaven, 39, of Doylestown, on Route 413 near Delhaas High School. Police were sent to the area after residents complained of a car parked in the area. Patrolman Thomas A. Duffy investigated and found DeHaven sitting in his car with the motor running and headlights on. DeHaven reported his license had been suspended as result of an accident last month.

He was taken before Rene J. Tritschler, of Croydon, who set bail for a hearing tonight. When DeHaven was unable to post bail he was committed to Bucks County Prison.

Release Asked In Slaying

MARLTON, N. J. (UPI)—A 32-year-old man held without bail in the mysterious slaying of his best friend was expected to seek his release today but police promised a prompt re-arrest if it was granted.

Counsel for Theodore Wurster, father of seven children, said he would file a writ of habeas corpus in Burlington County Court today claiming his client was denied his constitutional rights.

County Prosecutor Martin J. Queenan said if Wurster was released he would be re-arrested immediately on charges of failure to give evidence in the fatal shooting of Frank Egner, 41, eight miles from his Maple Shade, N. J., home last Monday night.

Queenan said detectives hope to question Mrs. Egner, mother of four children about the death of her husband, a tool and diemaker and a part-time bartender. Investigators said the Egners were to meet Wurster, of Georgetown, and his wife, Frances, in a neighborhood cafe the night the husband received a phone call summoning him to his death.

Egner was found slumped over the wheel of his auto two hours after he left the house "to help somebody out."

Bristol Car Skids, $1,000 Damage Listed

A Bristol man escaped injury but his car was damaged to the extent of $1,000 when it went into a skid and hit an embankment on Route 413, Middletown Township, about 6 p.m. yesterday.

Michael M. Valerino, 605 Windsor Drive, Bristol, told police he lost control of his car when he applied the car brakes on the slippery surface of the highway near Highland Park.

Patrolman George Haller, Middletown police, investigated the accident.

Huff Leads To Injuries

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Sykes, 607 Trenton Road, Fairless Hills apparently had a family scuffle yesterday afternoon. Falls Township police reported.

Sykes told his wife he was going for a ride. He left the house in a huff, police said.

He got in his car and drove away. What he apparently didn't know police said, was that he had dragged his wife about 20 feet as she held onto the passenger door of the car.

Police said she followed him to the car and tried to get in on the passenger side. She couldn't open the door and he drove off not knowing that she was on the street. A neighbor discovered her and called the Levittown Fairless Hills Rescue Squad.

She was admitted to Lower Bucks County Hospital with abrasions of the right arm, right leg, shoulder and side.

details are not complete," Gallagher said.

Last Friday, a meeting was called for representatives of the union, Neibauer and the Layton and Wills firms with Pennsylvania Labor Board Mediator Albert Tompkins.

Gallagher said that neither Layton or Wills showed up at the meeting.

"They had no interest in the meeting, it was Neibauer's problem," Gallagher said.

Poor Financial Condition

The Neibauer firm has been reported in poor financial condition for some time. It has been operating a deteriorating passenger service line but doing a much better business in parochial school and charter transportation, according to reports.

The Layton and Wills firms have been in business more than 30 years. The Layton company does a charter bus service business in Trenton. The Wills firm operates busses and sells bus equipment.

Edward Neibauer, of the Neibauer Bus Co., was unavailable for comment.

Going In Circles

By MAURY ALLEN

Coins and coin clubbers came into their own this year, the 150th anniversary of the birth of Abraham Lincoln. New Lincoln pennies were distributed and collectors marked the occasion with coin exhibits all across the county.

The Levittown Coin Club showed some of its latest coins in an exhibition recently at the Philadelphia National Bank in the Levittown Shopping Center. The club meets the first Wednesday of each month at 8 o'clock in the Levittown Community Hall.

Question of discussion probably is: What ever happened to the Lincoln Penny which used to be worth something besides being a coin collector's item?

Jim Crowley, one of Notre Dame's famed Four Horsemen, will be the guest speaker at the annual Communion Breakfast of St. Michael the Archangel Church, Levittown, June 14, at Rock Run Restaurant on Route 1. Crowley is now a state athletic commissioner in Pennsylvania. Student price for the breakfast is $1.75 and $2.25 is the adult price.

Crowley's subject hasn't been disclosed but maybe he'll talk on why fair-haired boy Terry Brennan lost his glamour so quickly?

Yardley Discusses Shade Tree Group

A small faction of Yardley residents feel that a tree removal program in the borough has become what they term a "crash program," on the part of the Philadelphia Electric Co., sources said today.

The group, comprised of local and civic organizations feels that this time that there is a need to re-activate the Yardley Shade Tree Commission to handle the situation. A spokesman for the Yardley Council reported that the commission has already been active for more than ten years.

In Bad Condition

The situation, it was revealed, began about two months ago, when it was brought to the attention of council that there were a few trees in the borough that were in bad condition.

Council, in turn, invited Philadelphia Electric Co. to come into the borough and remove the trees. At that time, about three trees were removed, sources said, and more trees were removed later on.

A spokesman for the electric firm said, "crews were sent into the area to trim trees that were obstructing electric wirings."

"During the trimming residents asked workmen to remove some of the trees instead of just trimming them," the spokesman added, "because they were in such bad shape."

He pointed out that the firm would not remove any trees without the permission of the residents. He added that no trees were removed without permission.

Tree Growing Program

"The Philadelphia Electric Co. attempted to aid the residents of Yardley by conducting a tree growing program to acquaint the borough with the best method of obtaining new shade trees," the electric company man said.

Representatives of the electric company recently met with members of the Yardley Lions Club and the Women's Civic Club as part of the tree program.

Herter Faces Big Job In Coming Talks

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Incoming Secretary of State Christian A. Herter returns to Washington today to face the task of pulling the Western Allies together for critical negotiations with Russia next month.

Herter, nominated Saturday to succeed cancer-stricken John Foster Dulles, has been assured swift senatorial approval. The Senate Foreign Relations Committee will meet tomorrow, with Herter present, to consider his nomination.

Herter will have little more than a week to prepare for the three-day Paris meeting of Western foreign ministers scheduled to begin April 29.

At that meeting, the United States, Britain, France and West Germany will have to come to a final decision on policies and strategy for negotiating with Russia at the Geneva foreign ministers' conference starting May 11.

The Western powers, so far, are agreed only as to what they will not do — they will refuse to give up any rights in Berlin and will not consent to any plans which might isolate Germany from the West.

They have yet to come to terms on specific proposals to be made to Russia at the foreign ministers' meeting and at a possible summit conference this summer.

Herter, the 64-year-old Massachusetts politician - diplomat who has served as Undersecretary of State for more than two years, was reported determined to take a firm hand in pulling together the Western front against Russian pressures.
